
Cooking Under Pressure

Pressure cookers are making a comeback in today's kitchens, whe very big plus. Modern pressure cookers are also quieter and sa cookers your mother used. We decided to try one for ourselves. Senio sociate Diana Erney (a gourmand in her own right) prepared some d a 5¼ quart Duromatic Pressure Cooker. Here's what she found:

PROS

- There was no annoying
- Instructions were easy stand and the cooker eas
- Food cooks in a flash ( for the beans, as opposed on the stovetop).
- You release the pressur down on the valve—a saf than on other models, wh
you to remove the valve, steam to erupt like a geys

CONS

- If food finds its way in you have to take the va clean it. (Some cookers have self-cleaning valves.)

Diana pronounced this model the "Rolls-Royce of pressure cooke and added that she could probably do some "serious canning" with a er model. Each Duromatic Cooker (they come in a variety of sizes) is washer safe and comes with a free cookbook and a 10-year warrant more information, contact Kuhn Rikon Corporation, c/o Swiss Kitch Bon Air Center, Suite 240, Greenbrae, CA 94904. Or visit the compa site at http://www.kuhnrikon.com.

Necessarily estranged by history

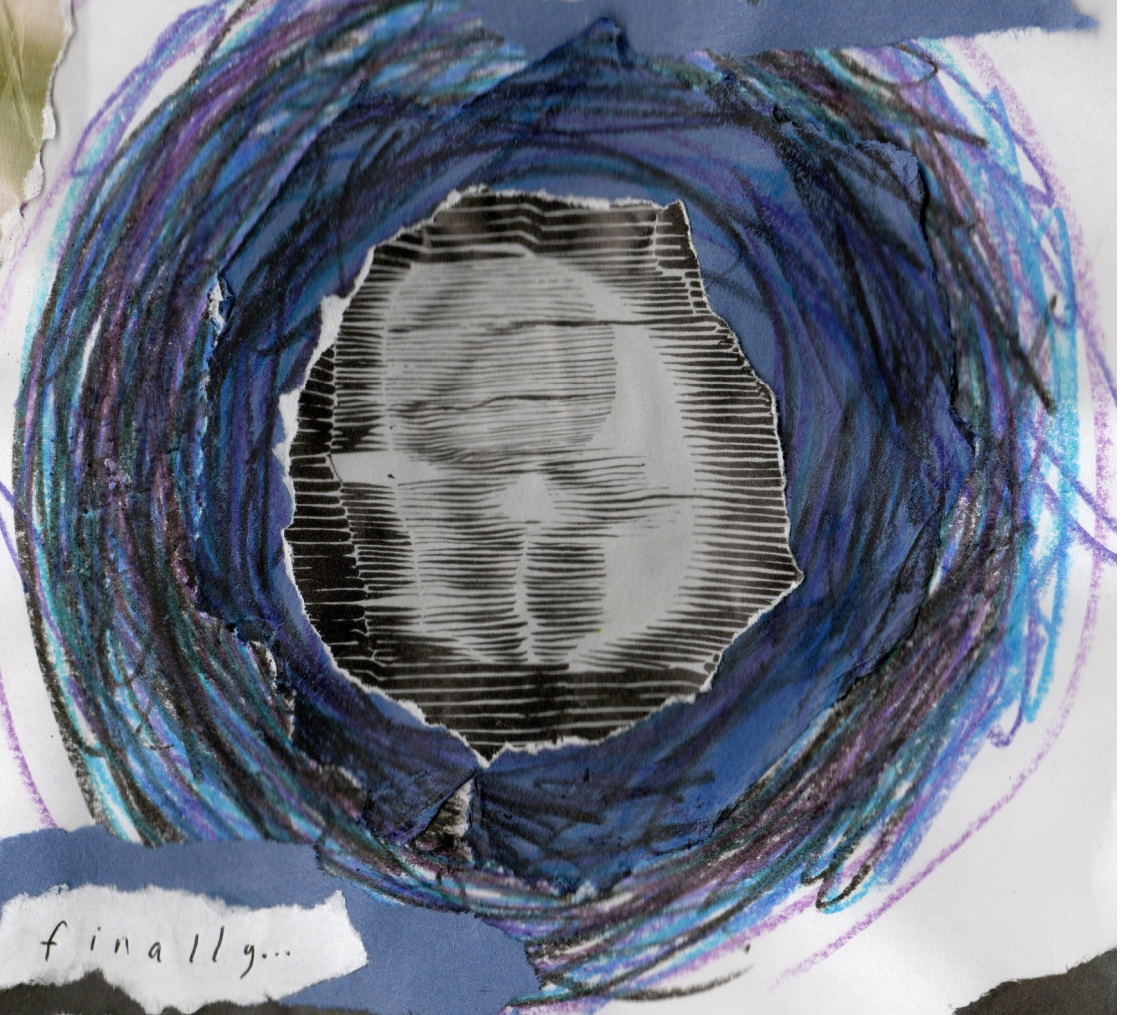
But it is the event horizon around a black hole where Tull-Toks claim the greatest books are to be found. When a Tull-Tok is tired of browsing through the endless universal library, she drifts toward a ~~[illegible]~~ black hole. As she accelerates toward the point of no return, the streaming gamma rays and x-rays unveil more and more of the ultimate mystery for which all the other books are but glosses. The book reveals itself to be ever more complex, more nuanced, and just as she is about to be overwhelmed by the immensity of the book she is reading she realizes with a start that time has slowed down to standstill, and she will have eternity to read it as she falls forever towards a center that she will never reach.

... in the deep silence of cold space...



finally...

a book has triumphed over

TIME

Lonely

death

YOU can DO IT!!!

(or Hatched...)

YOU WERE BORN FOR THIS

mini Dragon™

Slay the vicious, terrible duck

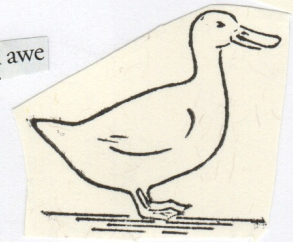
BUT BE CAREFUL!

Each animal has a unique gift.

Ducks are adept AT KILLING "Dozens?" I asked, in awe



a lot of ducks efficiently kill

Even among ducks, Indian Runners distinguish themselves for their voracious appetites for KILLING kids.

VIDEO PROOF!

NO Please send me

BARE ESSENTIALS

ZOOOM!

START HERE.

"A DANGEROUS SITUATION EXISTS IN THE CITY

WINGING IT

ABSOLUTELY.

digital humanity
CHECK EACH BOX AS YOU PROGRESS.
COVID-19
community transformation Innovative solutions
THIS IS MY RECORD QUESTION SUNNY
What's happening
THE PAST IS Canceled Culture USERS! live alone
Data
CURBSIDE SERVICE

Finding Drama in the Ordinary

100% SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
If I'm not 100% happy
I may cancel at any time and receive a full refund for all unmailed issues.

we're lost

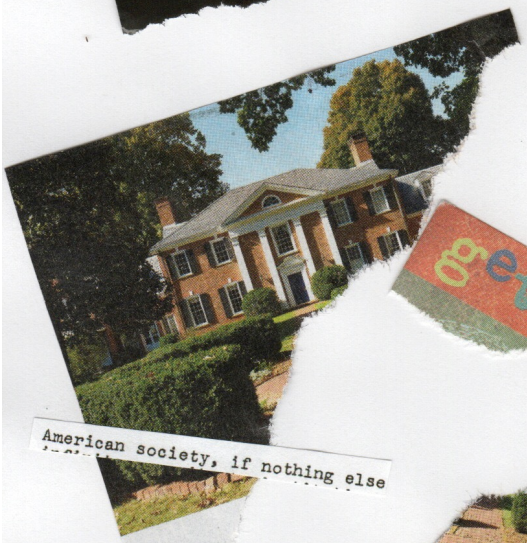
FAMILY FUN

unbearable

"treasures."

CELEBRATE

average



American society, if nothing else

get away

VERULAM FARM
$10,500,000 | MLS 622844

Have a seat

HOW TO MAKE YOUR MORE INTERESTING

DON'T LOSE YOUR INSPIRATION rules

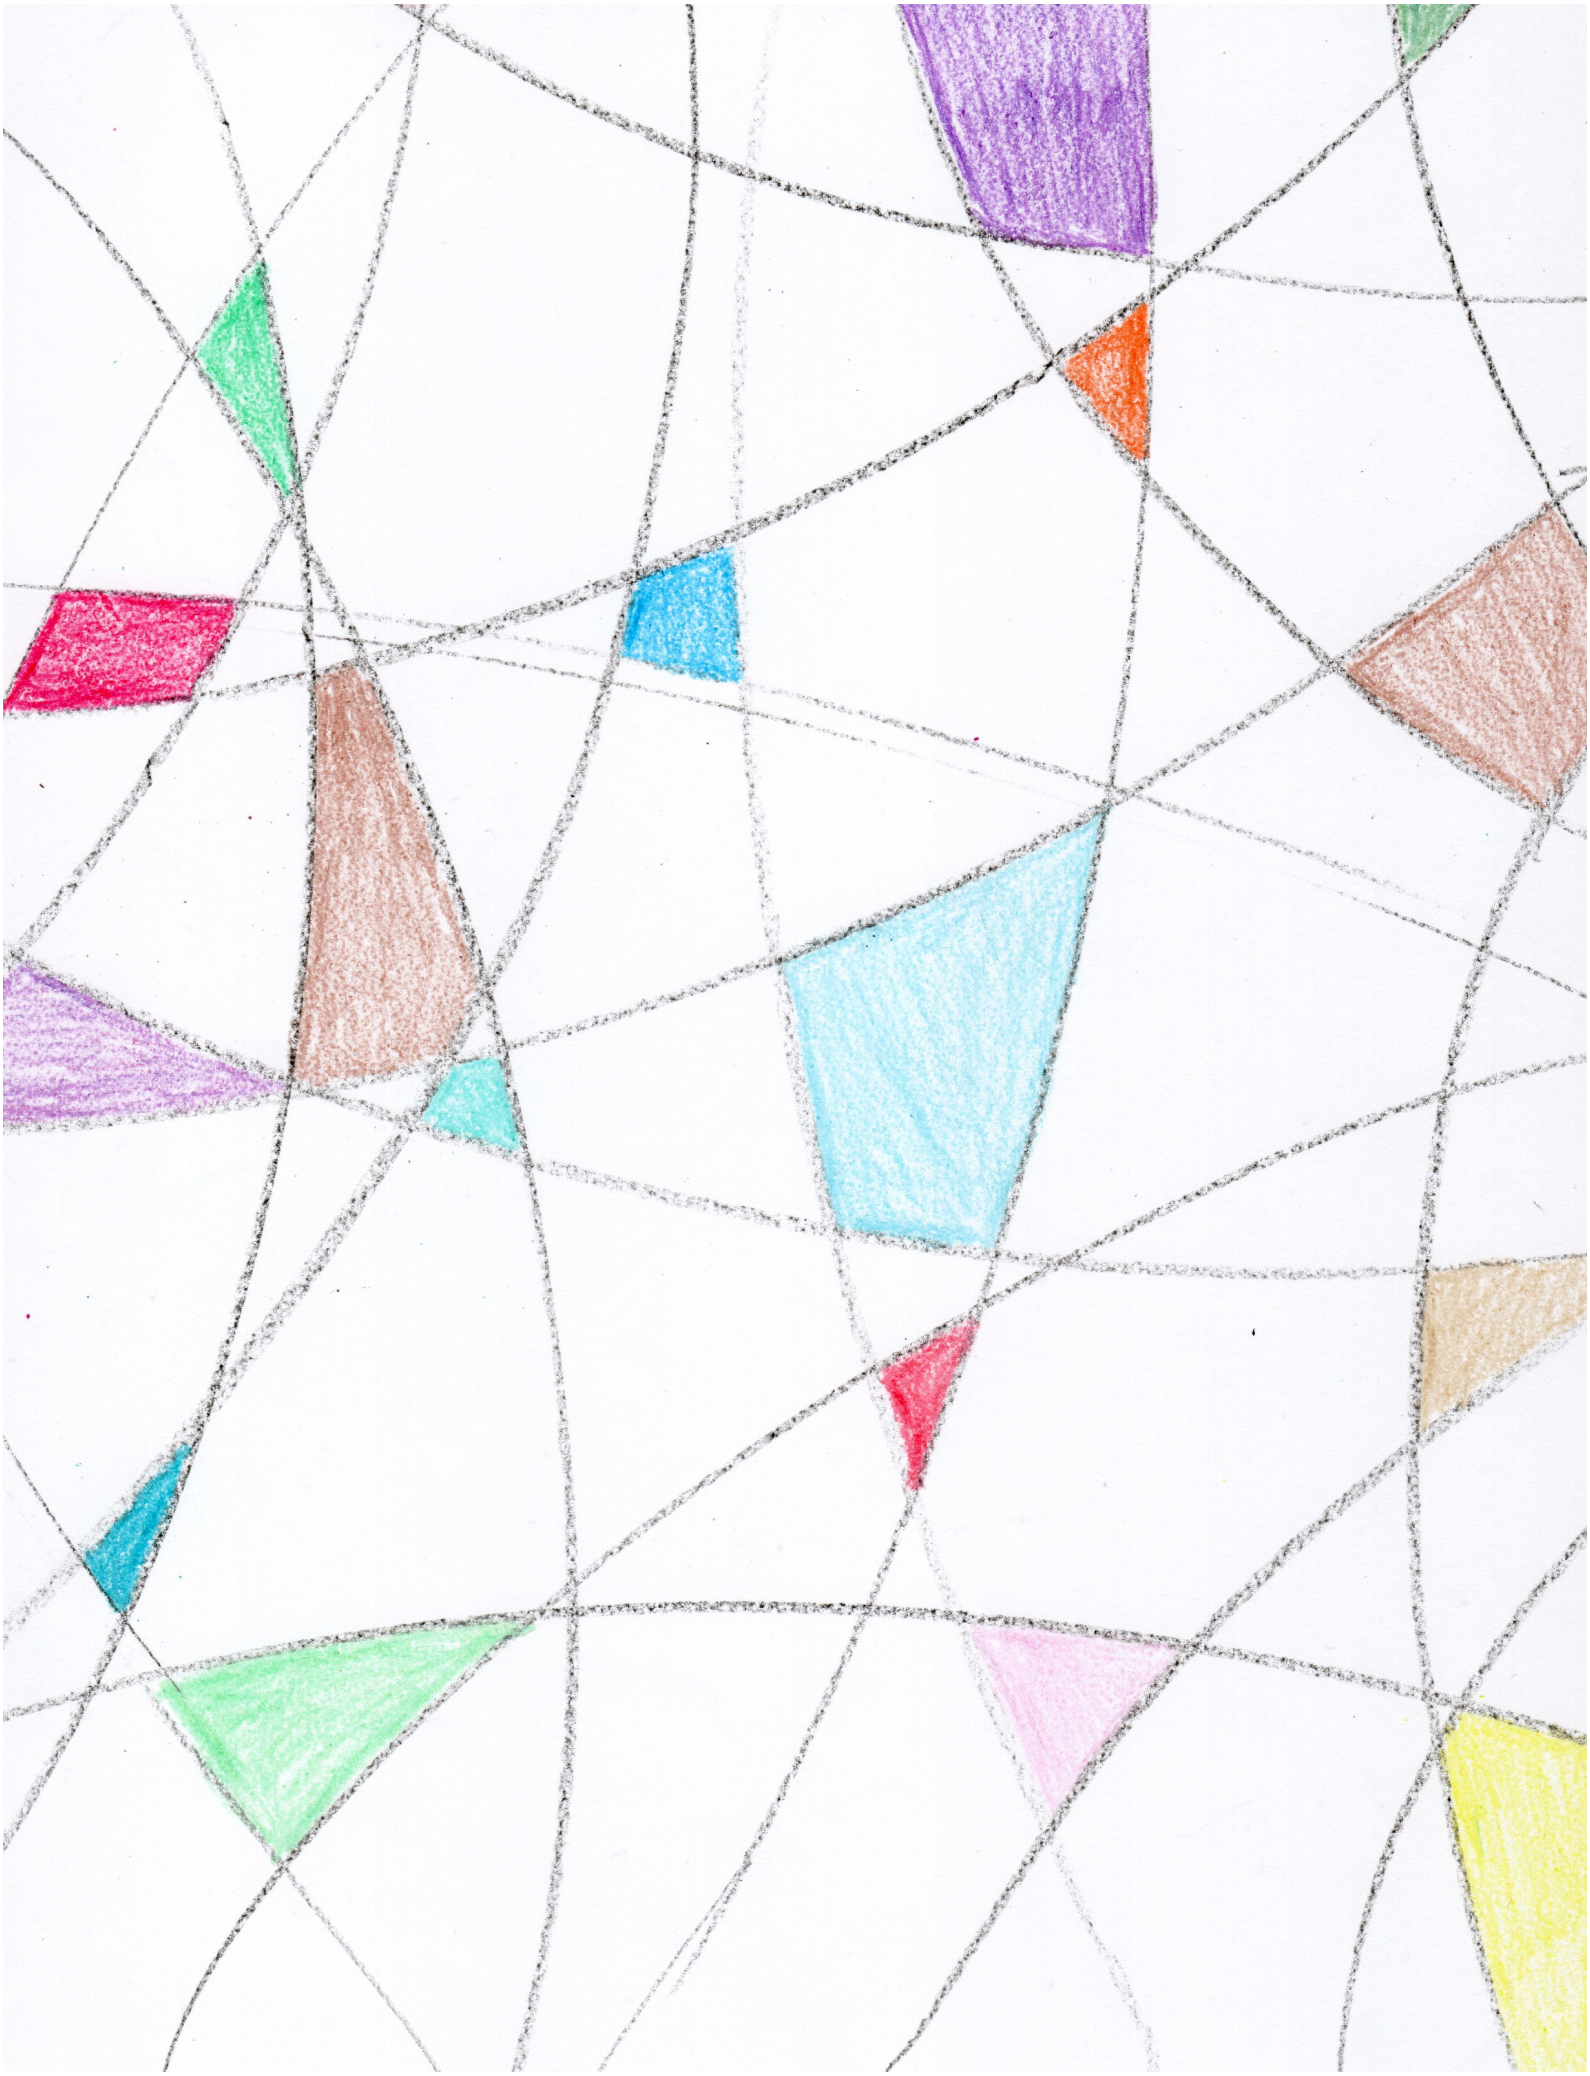
INVISIBLE

Color Outside The Lines



Crayola

Why 96 crayon colors?

They smell like childhood.

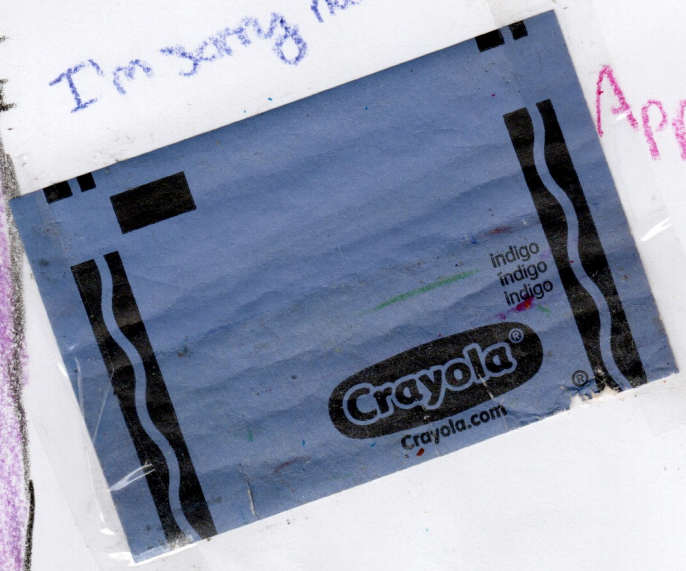
You won't feel it in the copy but this page is waxy.

How do we name a color?

Why anthropomorphize the crayons?

Apparently his name is Tip.

I'm sorry naked crayon



Neptunic

•WHY DO LEADERS CALL IT "GREATEST or BEST STUFF or PRODUCT in the WORLD?"
Save America
NEW!
EXTRA LIFE for YOUR:
Memories
The nationwide campaign to protect & restore America

Horticulture
The Magazine of American Gardening
The Enchantment of New Mexico
Wetland Natives from the Pacific Northwest
The Virtues of Pots
Adorn Your Fence
URBANA
Wayside Gardens presents
The Spring 1991 Edition of the Complete Rose Catalog
Your single most diverse source for superior Roses — The New English Roses, Old Roses, Species, Hybrid Teas, Floribundas, Climbers, Ramblers and many more — 48 pages illustrated in superb FULL COLOR with authoritative descriptions.
free
Send my complimentary copy of The Complete Rose Catalog.
Please Print:
DN 207
Name Address
Apmt.
City
State
Zip 4AKB8
The Complete ROSE CATALOG
The Magazine of American Gardening

Who Died and Made
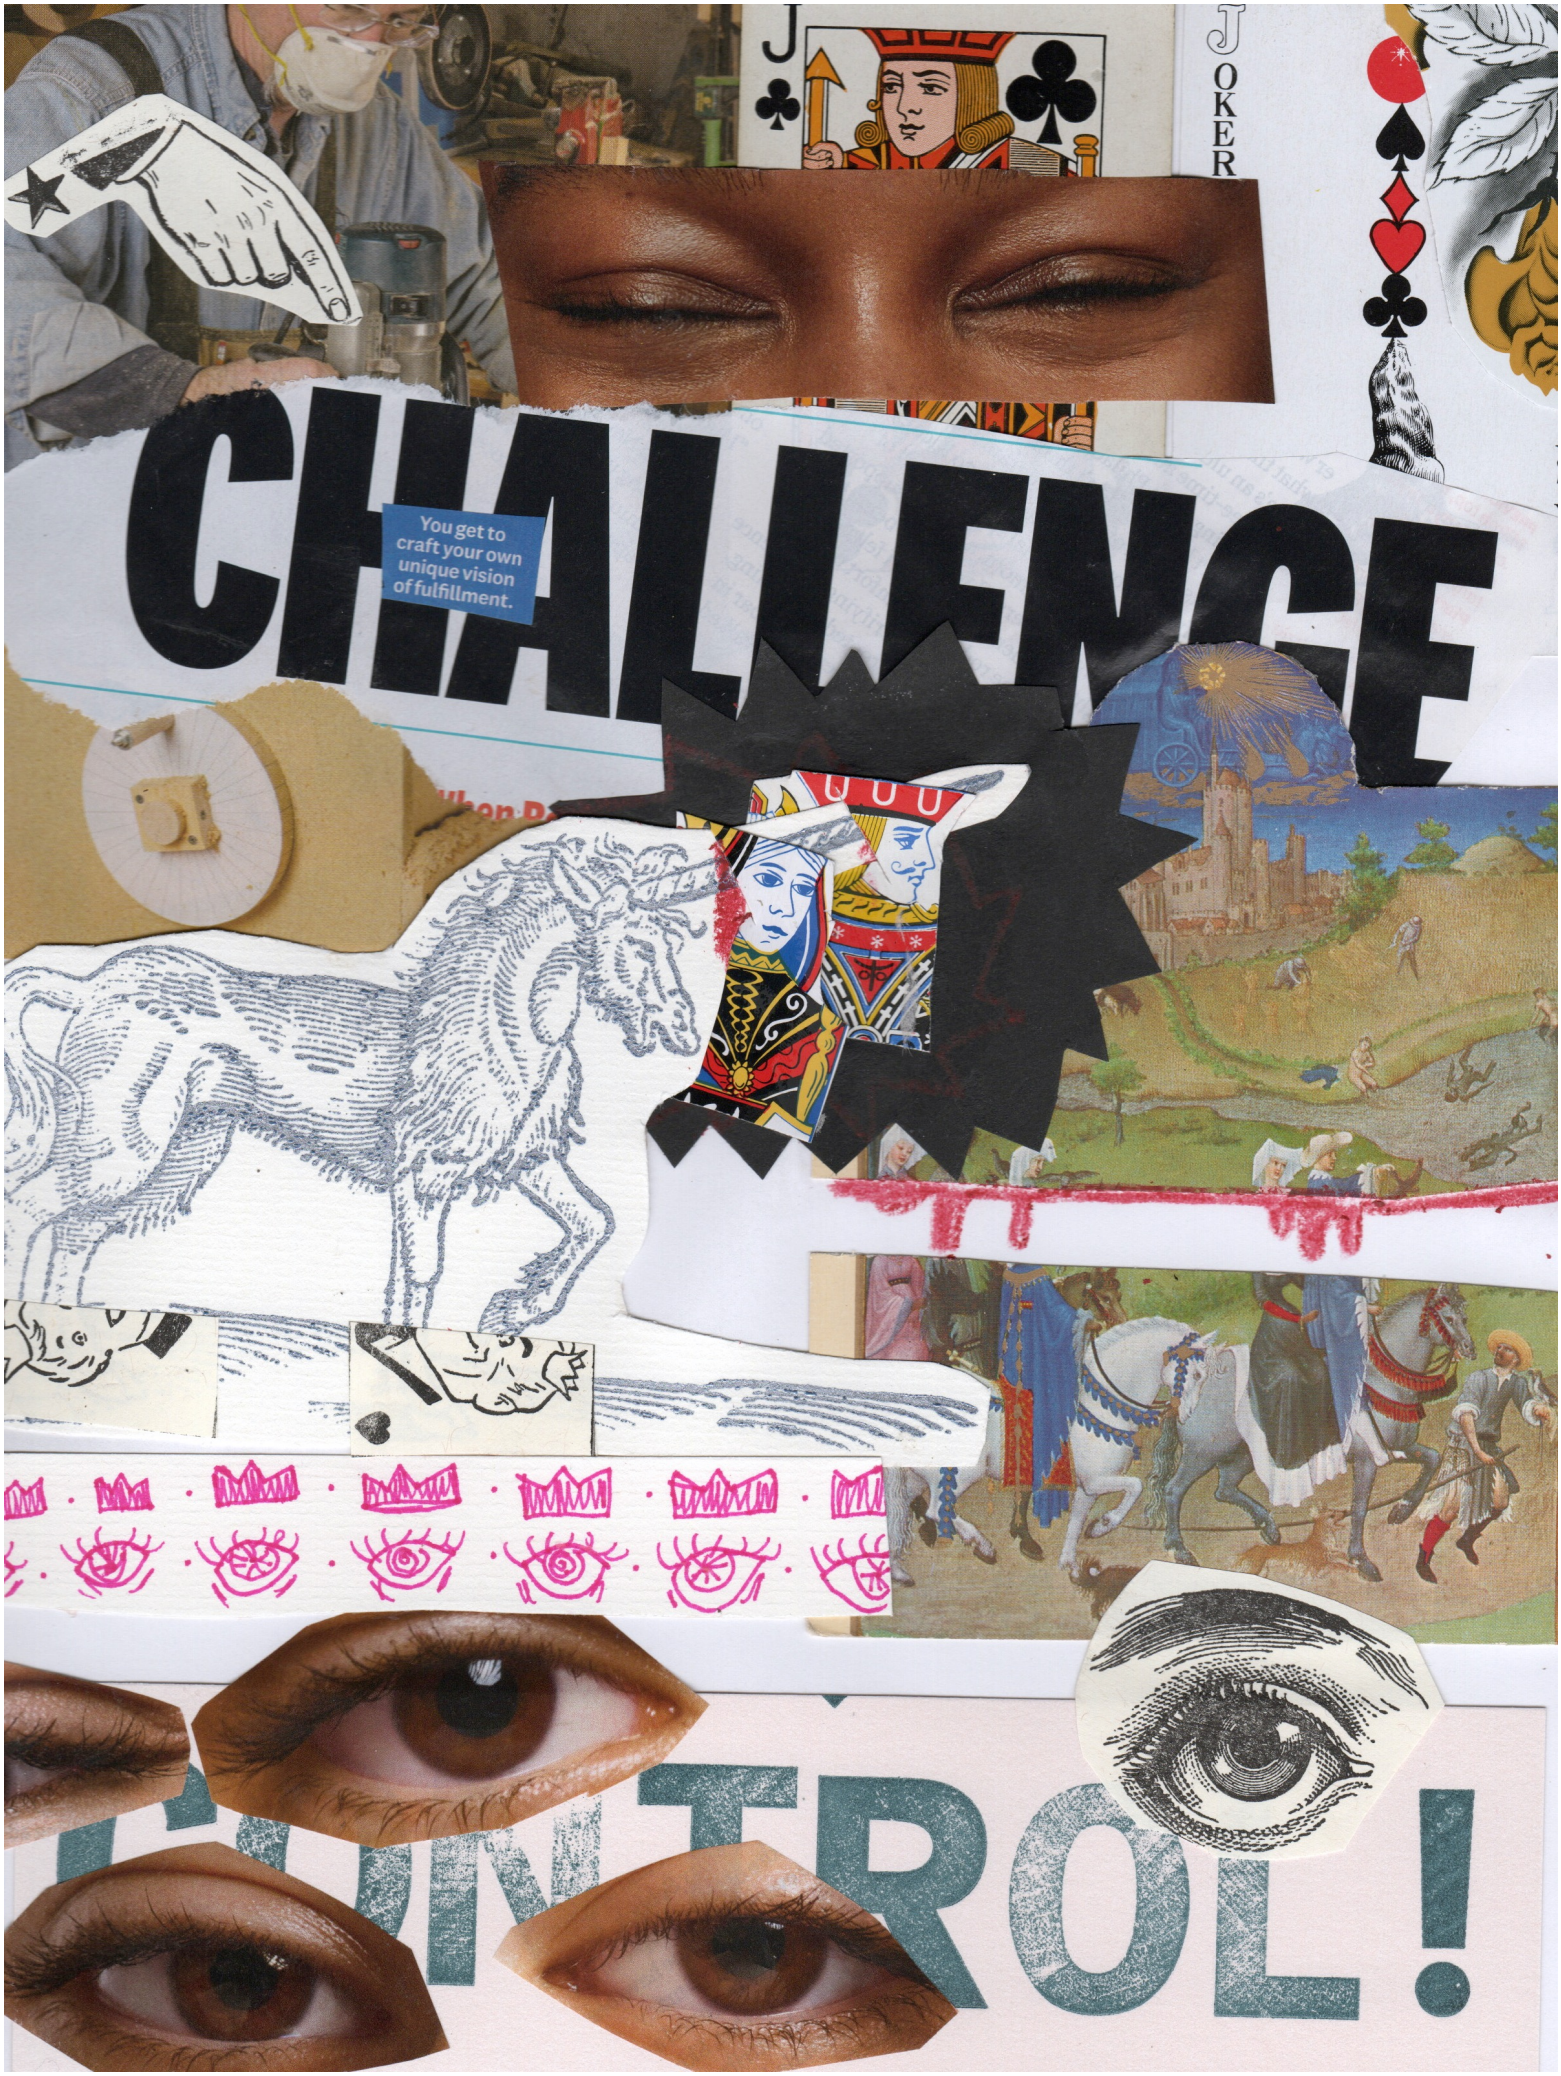
You
King?



CHALLENGE
You get to craft your own unique vision of fulfillment.
JOKER TROL!

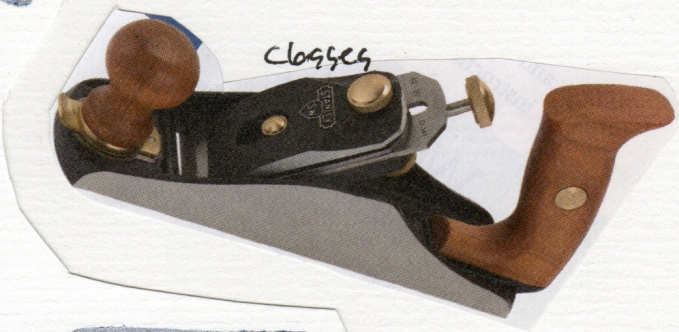
出る釘は打たれる

The nail that sticks out gets hammered down.



UIUC Student Assistance Center
610 E. John St.
217-333-0050
email: helpdean@illinois.edu

"Continue to challenge yourself with the c plexity of your work and approach. Never become static or formulaic."

Existing without consent.
JHKamikura

1. Dig a planting hole large enough to allow roots to spread out and deep enough to allow the plant (here, a hosta) to rest at the same depth as it was in its container. Loosen the sides of the hole with a cultivator.

2. Remove the plant from the pot. Set the plant in the hole and carefully replace the soil around the roots.

3. Water thoroughly. If the weather is hot, improvise shade (an old umbrella, propped-up cardboard box, etc.) over

CHAMPIONSHIP HINTS

Competing in your county fair is a fun and exciting way to test your gardening skill. Here are five tips to help you succeed:

1. Watch before you enter. Check out the judging this year, study the winners, and ask questions of the judges and experienced competitors. Next year, when you're ready to enter, you'll know what to expect.

2. Get a taste of the action in less competitive categories, such as broccoli, rutabagas, or turnips, before you try to win the more popular contests, such as tomatoes and peppers.

3. Don't eat any of your crop before the fair unless it's damaged; if your best-looking fruit spoils or is bruised before the fair, you may have to depend on your second-best fruit.

4. Think like a consumer when choosing varieties and specific fruits to display, advises Harold Hogan, a judge at the Dutchess County (New York) Fair and an extension agent in neighboring Ulster County. "Young squash and eggplant, for example, are more appealing and taste better than big ones, so I favor those." Judge Hogan also looks for uniformity in the entry and stresses the importance of following the directions in the premium (contest instruction) booklet.

5. Keep a checklist. "There's too much to remember when you're harvesting, preparing and packing up the produce for the fair," Goldman explains. "A whole season's effort can go to waste if, for example, you bring three carrots to the fair and the premium booklet calls for five."

Now, which varieties should you grow? These have been repeat winners for Amy Goldman in New York. The numbers refer to the mail-order sources (on the next page) for each variety.

TOMATOES: VIVA ITALIA (1, 6), BLACK PLUM (1, 7), PLUM LEMON (1)
PEPPERS: SUPER GREYGO (bell; 2), TEQUILA SUNRISE (frying; 3)
CUCUMBERS: FANFARE (slicing; 4, 6), ROYAL (pickling; 5)
SQUASH: GOLDRUSH (yellow zucchini; 4, 5), SUNBAR (straight summer squash; 2), TABLE ACE (acorn; 6)
PUMPKIN: HOWDEN (5, 6, 7)
CARROT: PIONEER (5)
EGGPLANT: CLASSIC (5), CLASSY CHASSIS (2)
BEANS: DERBY (green; 2, 4, 6), ROC D'OR (yellow; 7)
LEEK: AMERICAN FLAG (3, 6)
ONION: ISHIKURA (2, 4) & WAIT!